“I don’t want to live in this world...”
- Corporation Parasite

Every morning when I awake a match is struck with the opening of my eyes...and my brain is consumed in flames of rage. With each passing hour I see the world slip further into a pit of mediocrity, selfishness, greed and stupidity. Values and meaning are consigned to the waste and it sets my soul on fire! All that mattered is buried beneath a mountain of vacuous idiocy and the masses kneel before deformed, plastic idols while their incompetent leaders choke on their own corruption. There is nothing to love, nothing to respect and my heart is burnt black. I am reborn each day, forged in hatred!

Brazilian thrashers Deathraiser have returned with their second collection of rampaging masterpieces, Forged In Hatred, nearly fifteen years after their debut album, Violent Aggression first stalked the earth! Incredibly, despite their lengthy time away from the spotlight, the band have never sounded harder, faster or more venomous! Opening with ‘Severe Atrocity’ Deathraiser set their stall out for everything that is to come, with top quality riffs delivered with pinpoint accuracy and a massive surge of adrenalin. Swathed in great atmosphere and infused with that authentic, essential thrash spirit, ‘Severe Atrocity’ is the beginning of something special. With teeth gritted Deathraiser fly on into the maelstrom with ‘Primitive Medicine’, combining great songcraft with explosive velocity. You can’t over intellectualize this music – this is thrash and if you understand what that means, tracks like ‘Corporation Parasite’ will speak to your heart, your gut and the very blood in your veins. If you need it explaining then this is not for you. Cascading solos, surging rhythms, the urge to headbang until your neck breaks...this is everything you could ask for in great thrash metal album. From the jagged, whiplash ferocity of ‘Toxic Legacy’ to the finger shredding riff work and blistering intensity of ‘One Step To The Grave’ this is an album of perfectly formed speedballs of violent vengeance. Don’t bother looking for a weak spot, a chink in the armour or a filler track – you won’t find one. When ‘Dead Generation’ brings you home on the crest of a blood wave, with fire in your wake, you’ll be left breathless and electrified by an exercise in thrash perfection!

With the partnership between Xtrem Music and Deathraiser renewed once more, the relentless, timeless thrash metal of Forged In Hatred will be unleashed on January 22nd – on CD, 12"LP, Cassette & Digital formats. This is music that makes you feel alive, that cuts through the torturous frustrations of modern life like a serrated blade. Be ready to taste the sweat and excitement of the pit, the chaotic abandon and metallic aggression...be ready to thrash!
